

Glass. Metal. Stone. Ink. Paint.

I love to create with all of it, designing fused glass art and one-of-a-kind jewelry pieces.

The color, texture, luster, and play of light in glass inspire me to design in a medium that can be unpredictable, yet beautiful. After careful cutting and placement of the glass pieces, powders and paints, the heat of the kiln takes over, melting the glass parts together, often with a bit of the unexpected! The serendipity of glass fusing balances my desire to create orderly, well-planned pieces, and keeps calling me to the studio.

My jewelry designs range from colorful fused glass necklaces, bracelets, and earrings, to fine silver heirlooms that preserve handwriting, to whimsical pieces incorporating treasures from grandma's button box and unexpected found items from the junk drawer.

Why the unicycle in the Rezin Studios logo? It represents balance, whimsy, practice, and perseverance...all essential elements in creating my art!

Preserving Memories

Combining colorful glass or fine silver with images of a loved one's script, or bright iridized glass with pressed leaves from a special bouquet can create a memorable piece of custom art or jewelry keepsake. Contact me to discuss your custom art idea.

Custom Artwork

- Handwriting from a loved one's letter, poem, or recipe* preserved in fine silver, bronze or fused glass
- Leaves preserved in fused glass
- Glass bottles from a special occasion flattened into serveware or cut into small glass charms for jewelry
- Whimsical jewelry pieces from your button box or junk drawer treasures

* The process does not alter the original text piece

This custom fused glass dish includes a cherished family bread recipe, along with a favorite saying from the baker, "Have a treat on me!" and her signature, forever preserving her handwriting in gold.

Balance, whimsy, practice, and perseverance...just like riding a unicycle...all play a part in creating my art!
